Accessories Are Popular This Spring; Girdles and Beads Used

Dash and color seem to be the purposes of the new spring novelties and accessories. From girdles and beads to milady's silk underthings, color predominates.

The continued simple lines of frocks necessitate the wearing of striking ornamental effects which can be transferred from one frock to another and so give an endless variety of change.

This season's offerings in novelties are resplendent in color and lend a smart effect when properly worn. One really can't resist the appeal of the beads hung where they will catch one's eye as one passes down the aisle of a shop on a prosaic shopping mission, or the girdles, or the new collars, or the tempting scarfs, or the motley array of handkerchiefs.

BAGS FOR EVERY PURPOSE.
Novelty-shaped bags in silks and imported leathers, are spring's dictum, and, of course, bags of pin seal, tooled leather, and velvet are always serviceable and good looking.

Silk bags are made both of plain silk and figured, or in contrasting colors, and are well fitted. These bags come in suit colors, so that the purchase of a spring suit should precede the selection of a bag to carry with it. Bags for sport and evening vary in brilliancy of color scheme.

From France come the imported leather bags. Some of these are made of extremely fine tan, gray and brown suede. They are fitted with mirror, lip stick holder, pockets with elastic tops, and convenient places for bills, powder puff, and other things which women always carry with them. These bags, which have a certain nicety about their appearance, are almost flat, and have silk cord handles. Prices are quite moderate and range from an inexpensive average to more costly prices.

HANDKERCHIEFS ARE BRILLIANT.
In spite of a tendency manifest during the gift season towards pongee handkerchiefs, linen holds its own. It is obtainable in all shades and with the drawn threads in contrasting colors the effect is charming. Checked gingham, in lavender, pink, blue, yellow and other combinations, is a favorite for novelty handkerchiefs. Artistic embroidery and pleasing color combinations are found in the ready-made linen handkerchiefs. Crepe de chine handkerchiefs which are striking and unusual have bizarre designs and daring color schemes. Men's handkerchiefs remain conservative.

Spring Breezes in at The Fashion Show
Wednesday Evening

When the curtain rises at 8:15 Wednesday evening at the Columbia Theater it will seem a great tank of Spring air has been released— atmosphere generated by new fashions, some from Paris, the others from New York, and many showing marked influences of Japan and the Orient in the flowing butterfly sleeves, embroidered designs of the Hindu and Egyptian, and colors derived from the magic Palot of Garden, Sky and Canvas. The designers themselves surely have seen this magic artist for his cape is shown at every turn.

The Models---

The models shown by this store are selected from the regular assembly of garments in our stock, and not special show pieces, and consequently you can expect to find in our own show rooms many other such lovely creations for your personal selection.

Frocks---

Here are frocks fashioned so ingeniously that each one will stir up a style swirl whenever worn. Their exclusiveness is what makes them so coveted. Basque-like bodices and skirts just on the verge, perhaps one might better say on a circumference of the circular idea, are typical of taffeta, crepe faille, light plain and printed cantons, and crepe-knitch frocks. The new sleeves lend no end of variety, and dashes of color and a gay nonchalance so bewitching.

$19.75 to $85

Suits---

Suits so little worn for several season are surely coming into their own and constitute the spring costume that you will want first of all. It's the one you will doubtless wear most, and certainly these new styles will captivate you. The severely tailored jacket, the box coat, and the jaunty tweed will find an enthusiastic response from those who desire real smartness in dress.

$9.95 to $69.50

Coats---

Won't it be a joy to shed one's heavy winter coat for one of these light spring ones—a coat or cape as you may choose, both proved to be rather wrappy except some little sport jackets. The new soft tan, unusual blues, and pretty grays combined with colorful embroidered designs and linings furnish the newness in color, while the modes vary with great sleeves, all-over design motif stitchings, regular and low belts, and just the touch to most charm Milda's whims.

$9.95 to $65
